Sub-zero Weather Which Gripped Country for Whole Month Loosens Clutches

At last the cold weather which held the north country in its grasp all during December and for two weeks in January has loosened its clutches and at 8 o'clock Thursday night the thermometer registers above freezing.

The mercury dropped to 24° when the cold front came on December 26; when the cold front left on December 28, it was 0° below. On the same day it was 10° and the Peace River, which the thermometer took a little jaunt down to 60 below zero.

But there can be only those in the country who had to venture out on t's roads. In fact the country was completely cut off from a road.

It was with difficulty that the coal and wood men supplied the town with fuel. Once, however, when the weather broke, there was a great demand for coal in Christ Church, Grande Prairie, on Sunday.

Oldtimers with whom The Tribune reporter talked said that the cold spell was the longest without a break that they could remember.

After such a brief time the present weather seems like being in Florida.

In 1923, when the temperature in the winter was up to the first of the year, and it is thought by many that this winter will be a duplicate of that one,

Matron of Grande Prairie Municipal Hospital Honored

The name of Miss Elizabeth Pearson, matron of the Grande Prairie Municipal Hospital, now on vacation, appears among the names on the King's New Year's list.

Miss Pearson, who has been a member of the nursing staff of the Grande Prairie Municipal Hospital for four years, was born in Scotland and prior to coming to Grande Prairie was one of the superintendents of the hospital.

Since taking charge of the Grande Prairie Municipal Hospital Miss Pearson has shown a remarkable energy and an able administrator.

Wm. Shantz, chairman of the Grande Prairie Hospital Board, whose wife, a registered nurse, had the following to say:

"I am naturally pleased that Miss Pearson's name has been placed on the King's list. In Pearson we have a most capable superintendent of a most efficient staff."

Miss Pearson also had nice things to say about the local medical men. "We are also fortunate in having as medical men in our community some of the men of the highest integrity and ability," he observed.

"The Tribune joins Miss Pearson's many friends in offering congratulations."

Car Licenses to Remain Much the Same as 1933

Hugh Allen, M.L.A., passed through Grande Prairie on Tuesday, just from Edmonton, where he attended a caucus of the U. F. A. party.

Seen at the station by The Tribune reporter, Mr. Allen, in answer to a query as to the questions discussed, replied that among many other matters he had been asked to consider the position of the Alberta Motors Association to have the license year changed. The position of the association was that the license year should be similar to that of last year, viz.: Full price from the first of April to the end of September, and a 40 per cent cut from the first of April.

An Alberta officer stated that a flat rate was a possibility that a flat rate would be offered for old cars.

Twenty-Five Boys And Girls Are Feeding Calves

There are twenty-five boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 16 under the supervision of W. J. Thomson, district agricultural.

These calves will be shown at a fair to be held about the first of June, the same as last year.

The club will be divided into five feeding groups. The winners of these groups will compete for the championship.

The boys and girls made a splendid showing last year at the feed day held on the farm of Alex Craig.

According to Mr. Thomson, one of the judges stated that the local Boys' and Girls' Club Club was the best first-year club in the country.

The boys and girls, with the exception of one, are still members of the club.

The young now being fed are Aberdeen Angus, Shorthorns and Herefords. As they are all a high grade, the competition promises to be very keen.

P. U. Clinton is offering a special prize of $100 and a bird showing the best Aberdeen Angus calf.

Last year Angus McDonald gave a pure-bred heifer Shorthorn to the winner in the club.

Danger of Despair Should Be Guarded Against

Said W. H. L. Harrison of Beverage at the Evening Service Held in Christ Church Sunday

The action that God intercedes from time to time in the lives of men is the theme of an address delivered by the Rev. W. H. L. Harrison, Anglican minister in the Beverage district, who presided at a service held in Christ Church, Grande Prairie, on Sunday.

He claimed by Mr. Fred Lockyer, the choir sang a series of carols that have been traditional with the church for centuries, including the well-known favorite "O Come, All Ye Faithful."

"When Christ Was Born of Mary Free," "See How the Winter Snow," "Angels We Have Heard on High," "Kings," "The First Noel"; while the boys' choir, led by Rev. W. J. Thomson, sang "What Child Is This?"

The service was based on the reading found in the library of the late Archdeacon Beaufort, in which it was constructed after an ancient precedent.

In the course of his sermon the preacher urged that the special danger that lies in the world against us is who was the danger of despair to which the intellectual atmosphere of the world, as well as the popular conditions, make us liable.

The danger was constituted by the preacher in two streams of ideas, each peculiarly destructive of confidence in the ability of the human race to meet the challenges of life.

One of these streams of ideas derived from the experience of the average man and woman in the face of the facts of life.

Faced with the problem of maintaining personal integrity, guarding the keeping of a home in an average standard of comfort, men and women found that the majority of them have considerably widened.

Uncertainty was rendering life often difficult, but not unpleasant.

The other stream of ideas derived from the experience of the average man and woman in the face of the facts of life.

Faced with the problem of maintaining personal integrity, guarding the keeping of a home in an average standard of comfort, men and women found that the majority of them have considerably widened.

Uncertainty was rendering life often difficult, but not unpleasant.

It was in circumstances such as these that the testimony of the faithful, to the intervention of God in their own lives could be a source of help and encouragement to others.

Discussing his new venture, with the editor, Mr. W. H. L. Harrison, said that the mines will be operated in as modern a manner as possible and the miners will be given the highest standard, and that ample provision has been made for delivery to Grande Prairie.

B. H. Ross' intention to later open an office in Grande Prairie to look after his coal business in this country and was for nine years chief of police in Grande Prairie, he having for twelve years before coming to Grande Prairie.

Mr. Ross' plan is to have the mining leases held by him and to let the management of the mines to the miners.

It is estimated that there is yet over 50 per cent of the wheat in the Grande Prairie area which has not been sold.

ELKS' NEW YEAR'S DANCE WAS SPLENDID SUCCESS

The Elk's New Year's dance sponsored by the Elks was a howling success. At 12 o'clock sharp on New Year's morning, the doors were flung open to a cheering, bellowing, altogether. Demmitt and the town gave it liberal patronage. Our local bands had their turn to entertain to give them their New Year's breakfast at about 4 o'clock. Our local orchestra supplied the music. They are getting better on the job.

POST OFFICE STAFF WORK HARD ALL NIGHT

CORRESPONDENT HAS ANOTHER SCOTCH JOKE

Mr. Editor—Maybe you have not noticed that since the first of the year you had six jokes, four of them on the helpless Scotchman. I will give you another one. It is a new one. It is not printed but it is a true one. In the early days of Ontario when whisky sold for four cents, Sandy McRobert was asked to have a drink by a friend, who put down four copper coins. "I'll take a dram," said Sandy. "Will you give me a sixpence?" Now will some one of your readers tell me who the joke was on?

Thermometers have had a hard time this past few weeks, having to register as low as 63 degrees below, and never warmer than 35 degrees above.

The Misses Mildren and Eileen Hill and Alice Braman are spending their holidays with their parents. She will return to West End soon where she will resume her studies as regular.

The Christmas tree entertainment was patronized by a few hours through the efforts of the local school girls. All agreed that the program was well conceived and splendidly presented. The girls did a fine job and did a real and splendid re-enactment on the tree.

Mr. P. Bullis will spend his holidays in the city of Edmonton.

Mr. Shesley had the misfortune to lose his son a short time ago.

TOUGH GANG FACES DEATH IN CHICAGO

Acquitted in the $100,000 kidnapping of William Hamm, Jr., wealthy brewer of St. Paul, Roger Touhy and three co-defendants, Eddie McFadden, Gus Schaefer and Willie Sharkey, have little cause for self-congratulation, for theirs is a case of "Out of the frying pan into the fire." Steps were immediately taken to extradite the four Chicagoans, who had been indicted in the kidnapping of John (the Barber) Facker, who is said to have identified them as the persons who participated in the holdup, which occasion he paid $70,000 for his freedom. Penalty for kidnapping in Illinois is death, whereas if Joseph B. Keenan, special government prosecutor, had obtained a conviction under federal law in the Hamm case, maximum penalty would have been life imprisonment.

What a Curious World This Is?

By A. L. A.

A few evenings since we had with us in the district Mr. W. J. Thomson, a distinguished author who very kindly showed to a large audience some beautifully colored lantern slides of scenes in Alberta, Canada, and in Alberta, but principally in that wonderful lying to the west of us in the foothills.

To us at least, it was a distinct carry away for a time from the topics of bacon hogs and hams, to the true story of the politics and what-not of these troublesome times. Mr. Thomson has performed a real service in drawing our attention to the beauty spots which are as yet in our very doors. Too often we have been so intent on our immediate vicinity in striving for more distant and unattainable things.

But over and over again it has brought the most of us into this country, there is at least one quality common to all—the urge to move. As time went on, we were soon to secure the country north, east, south and west, assuming that if conquerors came, the presentation of the "stingy feet."

Before there was a road into the rugged Creek district, the first horseback rider was—"We back of the beyond," we wended our way by various routes, twistings and turnings, through the most difficult of the most stubborn, most ornery mires it has ever been our fortune to encounter in a good many years. And between the Badhabit and Smoky rivers. It was here we encountered our first snows, and when these at the time filled our breath with wrath not entirely untold, but now held here in publicity. Incidentally, one of our wandering long-eared actions of perchance was the first to make this interesting discovery.

Following a series of small, round dainty tracks entirely inappropriate to the size of our feet, we arrived. From under an outcropping of sand rock a small stream of crystal clear water gushed forth, bubbling within a few feet under a grassy, tuft-covered, circular basin possible that it had been a hole in the edge, was hard and dropped away abruptly to a depth of five or six inches. We were surprised to find that this turf was some six inches thick, a skin over a huge bowl of creamy mud, and repeated with much interest in its appearance center was one put-long-eared afflic-tion. Oh, yes, we eventually recovered him, but he was never the same since. Years later a motor road passed within walking distance of the spot where he had been lost, and we found it. The spring had vanished and our bowl of cream was as hard as the cement.

Why look as a means of locomotion, especially upstream on the "tugboat" river? We were told that the shipwrecked any sane person is still to me a mystery, but the fact remains that together a host of others were lost, though we labored for the better part of two weeks assembling an allaged rowboat of no more than a dozen feet in length.

With much profane grumbling many miles up the Smoky River. One evening we were surprised to find a snow storm was coming on faster than to the mental tasks associated with the preparing of tea, and the preparation of our meal.

It was on this occasion that we added our old market into a patch of spruce which wandered down a coule and floundered about the bushes above the river. Possibly we had a faint hope of surprising a fat buck at his evening's imitations, but, as we were to learn, the snow met flat, carpeted with a thick covering of moss, bare of the usual winter weeds, and the spruce needles, sparse scattered about carried a wealth of green into the hills above, while the tree trunks were round, moss-covered monoliths like gun drops.

Finally because of their look of a congenital resting place, we examined numerous patches of spruce, and found to the top of each sported a circular hole, possibly eight inches in diameter, the male fawn out of the nest, contentedly the exterior was composed of thousands of matted roots like basketry. Each bounteous lunch, which included nuts and candy, brought to a close a day's work, and when the thermometer had gone half a century deep into the glass. . . .

Poor roads rather detracted from the usual school activities, but we were learning that a happy end even though somewhat pinched in spots. . . .

Whether George and Jack Laverick are the two tough guys that hauling hay would induce them to carry for us in the kind of weather, or whether their activity is the result of dad's breaking his thermometer was unable to say. . . .

A bunch of wild and woolly cowboys, including a couple of hooded heads of "dopers" up the trail. Tally, headed in the general direction of the mountains, and the bear, the joyous strains of "Roll Along, Little Dudes, Roll Along," had quite died out before the cavalcade reached the town. . . .

After hearing Adams' Bryd broadcast from the South Pole, South Greenock puffed up courage to ride over one day last week. We hope the young man will be madeade sufficiently so the family may accompany him in the next future. . . .
